

AMERICAN PSYCHOLOGICAL FOUNDATION

The American Psychological Foundation is pleased to announce Mark Freeman, Ph.D., as the 2021 recipient of the Joseph B. Gittler award for significant scholarly contributions to the philosophical foundations of psychological knowledge. Mark Freeman is Distinguished Professor of Ethics and Society in the Department of Psychology at the College of the Holy Cross, where he has taught since 1986.

Mark Freeman, Ph.D.

His writings include Rewriting the Self: History, Memory, Narrative (Routledge, 1993); Finding the Muse: Sociopsychological Inquiry into the Conditions of Artistic Creativity (Cambridge, 1994); Hindsight: The Promise and Peril of Looking Backward (Oxford, 2010);

The Priority of the Other: Thinking and Living Beyond the Self (Oxford, 2014); and Do I Look at You with Love? Reimagining the Story of Dementia (Brill | Sense, 2021). Winner of the 2010

Theodore R. Sarbin Award in the Society for Theoretical and Philosophical Psychology as well as Fellow in the American Psychological Association, Freeman also serves as Editor for the Oxford University Press book series "Explorations in Narrative Psychology."

The APF Joseph B. Gittler Award was established through a bequest from Joseph B. Gittler, Ph.D., who wished to recognize psychologists who are making and will continue to make significant scholarly contributions to the philosophical foundations of psychological knowledge.

Joseph B. Gittler, Ph.D.