

Call for Submissions: Global & Culturally Diverse Leadership in the 21st Century

From: Joseph Trimble

Good day friends and colleagues. A few years ago our dear friend and colleague Jean Lau Chin and I initiated a column for the International Leadership Association. With Jean's passing last May we decided to continue the column to honor her passionate commitment and interest in cultural diversity and leadership. Antonio, Gayle and I encourage you to consider submitting a short op-ed piece on culture and leadership.

Call for Submissions: Global & Culturally Diverse Leadership in the 21st Century

Edited by Joseph Trimble, Antonio Jimenez-Luque, and Gayle Skawen:nio Morse

This column draws on the use of social identities, lived experiences, and social contexts that counter prevailing Western cultural norms and are used to shape the development of culturally specific, non-hegemonic paradigms of leadership. It emphasizes critical perspectives and decolonial and post-colonial approaches to studying global and culturally diverse leadership in the 21st century.

If you have an idea for a column, please contact column editors Joseph E. Trimble at josephtrimble@gmail.com; Antonio Jimenez-Luque ajimenezluque@san Diego.edu; and Gayle Skawen:nio Morse morseg@sage.edu.

For more information go to: <https://intersections.ilamembers.org/member-benefit-access/interface/global-and-culturally-diverse-leadership/call-for-submissions-global-and-culturally-diverse-leadership>.

We hope you will give our invitation serious consideration.

With appreciation,

--Joseph, Antonio, and Gayle

Joseph E. Trimble, PhD
Bellingham, WA

Antonio Jimenez-Luque, PhD
Department of Leadership Studies, SOLES
University of San Diego

San Diego, CA

Gayle Skawen:nio Morse, PhD
Psychology Department- CCP
Russell Sage College
School of Health Sciences
Albany, NY