Subject: SNOWFLAKE23 NOV 29 ZOOM

Dear Snowflakes who are game for the resumption of SNOWFLAKE23. Apologies for not having the computer setup for a session while in the Philippines last summer, and being ultra busy with life and my own writing since.

Several of our past participants have expressed an interest in the problem of political polarization. I am hoping some of our potential indigenous/cross-cultural (iptaskforce) participants can bring examples of within and between group aspects of conflict to bear on this problem.

I have suggested the article introducing the Princeton groups work on the issue. When they published they were more focused on the climate issues, but their work is more pertinent now to the current explosive bifurcation going on within nations as well as globally. You can download the html version at <https://www.princeton.edu/news/2021/12/09/political-polarization-and-its-echo-chambers-surprising-new-cross-disciplinary> it is well stated but general, with links to the articles related to the 8 research areas they examined. I attach a .docx version I made, their links don't show in that version, but I have highlighted word witch cntrl/clicked will show the links.

Ted has also sent a relevant article which is relevant to our topic.

So is the Dartmouth video I mentioned. Rethinking "Echo Chambers" at

Enough (or too much) said. Here is the link information for the SNOWFLAKE23 NOV 29, 11 AM ZOOM
